The Rev's Ramblings

Does panic ever set in for you? When does it happen? What is your trigger?

For me panic sets in when I feel lost in a sea of the unknown. The more I spin around to find out where I am the more lost and tangled I become.

The 23rd Psalm is a beautiful poem which can calm us down and help us to remember that there is a guiding power who knows us and is stronger than us. We may be like a sheep who has gone off in search of our own food and shelter, but if we take time to stop, breath and ask for help, I pray that The Good Shepherd will come and find us and carry us to more stable ground.

In times of danger the natural responses are 'fight' or 'flight', but maybe a third way could be 'faith in action'. The 'Lone Sheep' is not a safe sheep. We need to rejoin the flock and find support back in the fold. The Shepherd may show us a safer but more limited grazing place. For us that could mean self-control in the face of temptation or staying separate from unhelpful people or influences. It might seem unfair or harsh, but I pray we will clearly hear the call of The Good Shepherd and that we will be able to understand the benefits of staying in the safe pasture.

The 23rd Psalm recognises it is a dangerous world out there. Follow The Shepherd.
