The Rev's Ramblings

Trinity Sunday is traditionally the Sunday when Vicars try and find someone else to preach!

It's the Sunday trying to explain the Trinity of Father, Son and Holy Spirit.

The Trinity is the sticking point for people of other religions, because they feel that Christians worship three Gods. We don't. The Holy Trinity is three parts of one whole. If there were three separate Gods, God the Father would be very cruel (in my opinion) getting someone else, especially 'His' Son, to do the dirty work of being crucified to save humanity.

What parent wouldn't want to put themselves in the place of their child to take the hardship upon themselves? I believe that God is also the Son who lived on Earth and died on the Cross and rose again. Anything less is the role of a distant manager.

The Holy Spirit is the nature of God who is not limited to a human form like Jesus had when alive on Earth, but not God in fullness which would explode us when the Holy Spirit dwells in, guides, strengthens and comforts us. If the Holy Spirit is a separate God, then the Holy Spirit is a Contractor, not the Comforter.

The different natures/persons of The Trinity are distinct but undivided.

Clear now? As mud!

We need to have a balanced appreciation of The Trinity, otherwise we risk focussing only on: God Almighty, God All Matey or God All Misty. God is bigger than any one of our limited descriptions.
